St. Ignatius High School Opens Its Diamond Jubilee Year With Record Enrollment in Its New Building

With an enrollment of over 800 at the St. Ignatius high school began its seventy-fifth year on August 19, when classes were held for the first time in the beautiful new building on Stanyan and Turk streets, which replaces the old "temporary" edifice on Hayes and Stanyan streets, the home of the school since the fire of 1906.

The new school has accommodations for 1100 students. So as not to exceed this number during the next few years, only the best 250 were accepted from among those who applied for admission into the freshman class.

Classical Architecture

Designed by the architect, Edward F. Eames, the new high school is constructed along classical lines, and is thus in harmony with the church, the faculty building and the college building.

The new structure is 270 feet long and rises three stories above a large and spacious basement. The main entrance is on Stanyan street, and the lobby is done in Sienna marble, the walls being in imitation travertine.

Offices and Library

On the first floor is the office suite, containing offices for the principal, the vice principal, and the spiritual director, and three offices for the student body and the athletic department. On the same floor is the library, which has accommodations for 10,000 volumes and for 100 students. It is done in mission style, the woodwork being of oak. An assembly hall adjoins the library, a delicately done thing with beamed ceiling, in a greyish color, the drapes for the windows and stage being in green.

Class Rooms

There are seven class rooms on the first floor, fifteen on the second floor and twelve on the third. The physics and chemistry departments, modern in every respect, are on the third floor, and next to them are two drawing rooms, one for mechanical drawing, the other for free-hand drawing.

Laboratory

The laboratory permits 88 students to work at one time, and double this number when the experimenters work in groups, as they usually do. At all tables are plugs from which may be connected either alternating or direct currents for performing experiments.

Chapels

The gem of the entire building is the chapel, the entrance to which is on the second floor, but which occupies the space of two floors. It has a gallery which is entered from the third floor. The harmony of the chapel, the delicately colored walls, the graceful arches over the windows, the symbolism of the ornaments, all make the chapel something quite distinctive in chapel design.

Altar

The crowning point of the chapel is the altar, designed entirely by Edward Eames. It is of plain marble, with a free-standing tabernacle. The tabernacle and the six candlesticks are of black ebony, the candlesticks resting on the table itself, there being no shelf or step. The altar stands free of the wall; the reredos is on the wall and contains three panels, the middle one of the Madonna and Child, the two side panels representing the one the adoration of the Shepherds, the other the adoration of the Magi. These panels are flanked again by wooden panels, beautifully decorated, which can be folded over the paintings in the more somber seasons of Advent and Lent.

Basement

In the basement, which is completely above ground, are found the students' cooperative store, the book store, the assembly room and library of the men's sodality, a huge winter playground, a cafeteria completely modern in every detail, the athletic locker and dressing rooms, and the boiler room. The cafeteria is capable of seating 200 at one time, and its equipment will permit serving over 600 in an hour.

Athletic Grounds

The extensive playgrounds outside the building contain four basketball courts, three handball courts and a tennis court. Just east of these grounds is the athletic field, which will be used by both the college and the high school. The field has been thoroughly graded and planted in grass; it is 534 feet long and 200 feet wide. The turf field is encircled by a quarter-mile running track, which has been designed and laid out in accordance with every requirement and is one of the very best tracks in California.

Radio Loud Speakers

Every class room is equipped with a radio loud speaker. The same equipment is found in the library, assembly hall, cafeteria and winter playground. From the microphone in the principal's office the entire student body or any part of it can be addressed. Thus a notice, instead of being sent around by word of mouth to the 35 classrooms and consuming a great deal of time, can be delivered simultaneously to all the classes in just a few moments.

College Enrollment

The enrollment statistics from the St. Ignatius college department have not yet reached us; we have heard, however, that the new college building at Fulton and Cole streets, opened two years ago, is already overcrowded, and many applicants for admission have been turned away.

Faculty

The staff at St. Ignatius, so far as we have heard, is as follows: Fathers Edward Whelan, rector; James Colligan, minister; Aloysius Austin, teacher; George Bailey, teacher, confessor in church; Richard Bell, visiting chaplain St. Mary's hospital, confessor in church; Cornelius Buckley, teacher, confessor in church; Charles Carroll, general prefect of studies of the province regent of law and commerce schools; Alexander Cody, teacher, confessor in church; James Conlon, teacher, confessor in church; Paul Corkery, moderator of athletics, teacher; John Cunningham, assistant in church; Thomas Flaherty, procurator, teacher; Hubert Flynn, dean of college; Henry Gabriel, librarian, teacher; John Gearon, teacher; Richard Gleeson, prefect of church; Joseph Malaise, spiritual father, confessor in church; John McCummiskey, college chaplain, teacher; Edwin McFadden, high school chaplain, confessor in church; Edward Menager gave several retreats during the summer to Catholic women at the house conducted by the Maryknoll Fathers near Los Altos; Joseph Morton, teacher, confessor in church; Walter Semeria, teacher; Francis Sheerin, teacher; Aloysius Stern, visiting

Sodality Retreat

During the annual retreat for the members of the Ladies' sodality, which will begin in St. Ignatius church on Sunday evening, September 8, and close with general Communion and papal benediction at the 7:30 Mass on Sunday morning, September 15, the following will preach the evening sermons: Sunday, Father Edward J. Whelan; Monday, Father John McCummiskey; Tuesday, Father Francis Sheerin; Wednesday, Father Victor White; Thursday, Father Richard Gleeson; Friday, Father Walter Semeria. On Saturday evening there will be Rosary, Benediction and confessions. The morning instructions after the 8 o'clock Mass will be given by Father Richard Gleeson.

College Plans Expansion.

More than 100 members of the St. Ignatius College Development Association met September 2 to formulate plans for the raising of funds to erect additional buildings on St. Ignatius heights.

Organized through the initiative of bankers, professional men, corporation presidents and other prominent business men of San Francisco, the development association has made possible the obtaining of an option for the purchase of 28 acres of land adjoining St. Ignatius college, and plans to provide for the erection of buildings that will meet the requirements of St. Ignatius for years to come. The association has opened offices at 444, 445 and 446 Phelan building, San Francisco.

Fr. Dunne's First Mass

Father William Dunne, ordained a year ago at Lyons, France, celebrated his first solemn Mass in St. Ignatius church, San Francisco, on Sunday, August 18, before a congregation that packed the church to the doors.

Father Charles Carroll preached an eloquent sermon on the occasion; Father James Colligan, was assistant priest; Father William McNally, deacon; and Father James King, sub-deacon.

Delegations of Catholic and Irish societies, with which the parents of Father Dunne have long been prominently identified, attended the services. Hundreds of members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and its Ladies Auxiliary were present in a body.

A testimonial dinner was given in honor of Father Dunne by Joseph McInerney at the Cathedral apartments. Toasts to the honored guest were given by William A. Sherman, president of the City National Bank; Supervisors Frank R. Havenner, Warren Shannon and Milo F. Kent; Joseph T. Harrington, Thomas R. O'Day, state president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; Joseph J. Burns, president of the United Irish Societies; Timothy E. Treacy, James A. Ryan, Dr. Jacob Meyer, Frederick L. Esola, United States marshal; Thomas F. Finn, Capt. Michael Riordan, Vincent W. Hallinan and George P. Reilly.

El Retiro

Graduation Retreat

The 27 members of the graduating class of Santa Clara University made their retreat at El Retiro under the direction of Father Dionysius Mahoney. This is the third year this retreat has been made at El Retiro.

Mr. Eugene McCoy has placed a very devotional crucifix in each room of the Retreat House. The cross is of ebony, the corpus of metal. Set against the wall and over the writing table, it gives a touch of monasticism to the "cell."

The staff at El Retiro are Fathers Joseph Stack, Zacheus Maher and D. Mahony.

College Park

The staff at College Park is as follows: Fathers James Hayes, superior and prefect of studies; Carl Budde, minister and teacher; John Cosgrave, students' chaplain and teacher; Ivan Fabris, teacher; Charles Lorgan, teacher; Louis McCann, teacher; Michael Meyer, spiritual father; John O'Connell, prefect of discipline, assistant prefect of studies, procurator; Messrs. Deasy, Sweeney, Fahy and Rielly, teachers; Brother James McCormick, ad dom.

Gonzaga University

Faculty

The Gonzaga staff, as far as we have heard, is as follows: Fathers Daniel Reidy, rector; Henry Vrebosch, minister; James Brogan, regent of law school; Edgar Taylor, dean of college; Joseph Balfe, procurator; Francis Franchi, in charge of the Italians; Charles Greenwood, chaplain Sacred Heart hospital; John Keep, principal of high school; Edward McNamara, alumni; Charles Owens, in charge of several Indian mission stations; James Rebmann, spiritual father; George Weibel, curval; James Gilmore, Patrick Joye, Julius La Motta, James Linden, John Buschor, Thomas Maher, Charles O'Brien, Godfrey, O'Shea, Edwin Sprague, Joseph Werner, teachers; Curtis Sharp, students' chaplain; Alphonsus Fletcher, pastor of St. Aloysius church; Harold Buckley, assistant pastor; Messrs. Francis Blaes, Frank Corkery, Maurice Flaherty, John Coughlin, William Ryan, Philip Soreghan, George Simoneau, teachers; Brothers Peter Buskens, Francis Dougherty, Joseph Kaufhold, Michael McDermott, Joseph Perry, Aloysius Veraldi.

Summer School Enrollment

The enrollment in the Gonzaga summer school this year numbered 240, an increase of about 60 over last year. Six of these were Christian Brothers of Ireland, and 178 were Sisters from 17 different congregations. There were 42 Sisters of the Holy Names, 36 Franciscan Sisters of Glen Riddle, 24 Franciscan Sisters of Perpetual Adoration, one Franciscan Sister of Stella Niagara, 18 Sisters of Providence, 12 Sisters of Charity of Leavenworth, 8 Benedictine Sisters, 8 Dominican Sisters, 6 Sisters of St. Anne, 5 Visitandines, 5 Sisters of Notre Dame, 4 Sisters of St. Mary of Beaverton, 2 Sisters of St. Joseph of Peace, 2 Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, 2 Ursulines, 2 Sisters of the Immaculate Heart, and one Sister of the Holy Cross.

Renovations

Father Henry Vrebosch, minister at Gonzaga, has had all the classrooms on the first floor repainted during the summer. The students' lavatories have been done over completely in white enamel paint. The lower corridors are being calsomined. In the gymnasium a complete ceiling has been built, and the wall is being removed which separated the gymnasium from the billiard room and the little theater, thus enlarging considerably the size of the gymnasium. The swimming tank, which had proved unsanitary, is being filled in and will be converted into a shower room.

Summary of Registration

Classes will be resumed in the Gonzaga high school September 10; in the college, September 18.

The summary of last year's registration at Gonzaga university is as follows: College of arts and sciences, 315; school of law, 73; graduate school, philosophy and science (Mt. St. Michael's), 99; summer session, arts and sciences, 240; Saturday session, arts and sciences, 40; home study courses, 96; total, 863; less 69 duplications the total university registration is 794. Adding to this the total high school registration of 387, the total grand registration is 1181.

Hillyard

Renovations

Father Van der Pol, the pastor of St. Patrick's church, Hillyard, has had the church, rectory, the parish school and the Sisters' house painted during the summer. Some time ago, by order of the municipal authorities, he had the two church towers lowered 40 feet to make them safer. He also had the interior of the church renovated and beautifully retinted by the same contractor who did the splendid work in St. Aloysius church, Spokane. The parish school was also thoroughly renovated.

School Prospering

The enrollment in the parish school has just reached 200. The children are taught by eight Sisters of the Holy Names; their superior, Sisted Ethel, is the sister of Father Mootz of Santa Clara, Father Van der Pol obtained the use of a vacation villa on lower Twin Lakes, Idaho, for the Sisters of his parish school during August.

Parish Activities

During the past year Father Patrick Foote of Mt. St. Michael's directed the men's sodality and the young ladies' sodality of St. Patrick's parish; Father Daniel Meagher of Mt. St. Michael's had charge of the young men's sodality and of dramatics; he put on two very successful parish plays; Father Van der Pol directed the ladies' sodality and the altar society; Messrs. O'Hearn and Suver of Mt. St. Michael's had charge of the St. John Berchman's acolytical society.

Los Angeles

Faculty

The staffs of the three Los Angeles houses, so far as we have been able to ascertain, are as follows:

Del Rey: Fathers Joseph Sullivan, rector; Madden, minister; Riordan, librarian; George P. Butler, spiritual father; Joseph Donovan, dean; Gilbert, physics, athletics; Acquistapace, Coghlan, Heney, Hourican, Watson, teachers; Messrs. McQuillan, Spenner, teachers; Brothers John Pereira and P. Doyle.

Venice Boulevard: Fathers Wara superior; Charles Leahy, minister; R. Butler, principal of high school, regent of law school; R. Shepherd, prefect of discipline; Dratham, De Rop, Ralph, Regan, teachers; Messrs. Conway, Forster, Marine, teachers; Brothers Desjardins and J. Murphy.

Hollywood: Fathers McHugh, pastor; Blackmore, William Shepherd, Daniel Stack, assistants; Brother George Laird.

Laymen's Retreats

Ten laymen's retreats, with the capacity crowd of 30 present at every one, were given at the new college at Del Rey during the summer by Fathers Joseph Sullivan, Joseph Stack, John McCumiskey and Zachaeus Maher.

Unique First Mass

The first solemn high Mass ever celebrated by three Garvanza pioneers took place at 11 a. m. Sunday, August 4, in the Blessed Sacrament church, Hollywood, with Father Leo Madigan as celebrant; Father Hugo Duce, deacon, and Father David Daze subdeacon. A large crowd of their friends and relatives was present, and the large church was filled. Father McCaffrey of the Maryland-New York province, master of novices at the Upper Canada novitiate, preached an eloquent sermon on the occasion.

That evening at 7.30 the three young Levites officiated at solemn Benediction and afterwards gave their blessing to the crowds that came up to the Communion rail.

That morning Father Daze celebrated Mass at the Dominican convent in Los Angeles, where his sister is a nun. On August 18 he sang his first solemn Mass at the Sacred Heart church, in the parish where he was born.

Father Leo Madigan celebrated Mass at the convent on Pico boulevard, where his sister is a Sister of the Immaculate Heart.

Los Gatos

Father Thomas Meagher, the master of novices, after an illness of several days, went to the hospital in San Francisco on July 20. He returned to Los Gatos at the end of the week, but had to go back to the hospital on the following Monday where he remained till Saturday of that week. According to our latest report from Los Gatos, he is now well on the way to recovery.

New Novices

Twenty-nine new novices had arrived at Los Gatos by the middle of August; several more were expected in the near future. The new novices are the following: From Anaconda, Marcus Callan; from Butte, Francis Harrington; from Los Angeles, Louis Litschi, Carl Von der Ahe and Leo Werts of Loyola high school and Anthony Kulwicz of St. Mary's college, North Dakota; from St. Mary's, Moraga, California, Joseph Carroll; from Salem, Oregon, Robert Renner; from Santa Clara, Joseph Haegerty, from San Francisco, Eugene Cleckack, Robert Graham, Daniel Kelleher, Carmelino LoPresti, Michael Lo-

Presti, Charles McCarthy, John McGloin, John Murphy and Donald St. Sure of St. Ignatius high school; from Seattle, Talbott Carroll of the university of Washington, and Barrett Corrigan and Joseph Giroux of Seattle college; from Spokane, Charles Barry, Paul Luger and Bernard Nixon of Gonzaga university, and Arnold Custer and Claude Schmitz of Gonzaga high school; from Tacoma, Philip Land, and from Yakima, Henry Kohls

First Vows

Six novices were admitted to their first vows on the feast of St. Ignatius, namely Brothers Ronald Heron, John Corrigan, John Taylor, Gerald Pope, Raymond Talbott and Gerald McDonald. Ten more pronounced their first vows on the feast of the Assumption, namely Brothers Clifford Allbutt, Julius Hermans, James Hurley, Hugo Kunz, Robert McMahon, Victor Moreno, Frederick Spieler, Walter Want and Francis Werts. The same day Brother William J. Nash, a coadjutor novice, was admitted to his first vows.

Fire on Mt. St. Joseph

A large brush and forest fire broke out on Mt. St. Joseph during the summer. The extensive fields adjoining Mt. St. Joseph, already burned over, were black and smoking, while lower down the hill the fire was crackling savagely in the dry brush, and oak trees in flames were sending up great wreaths of black smoke, when several juniors armed with shovels and sacks were rushed to the scene in automobiles. Under the direction of one of the neighboring property owners the most dangerous blaze was soon checked and a fire break cut to prevent the further advance of the flames.

Mt. St. Michael's Staff

The staff at Mt. St. Michael's for the coming year will be as follows: Fathers Thomas Martin, rector, professor of Hebrew; William Elliott, minister; William Benn, psychology; Augustine Dinand, spiritual Father; William Donnelly, logic and ontology; Patrick Foote, mathematics; Paul Galtes, chemistry, empirical psychology, biology, geology and astronomy; James Kiely, prefect of studies, ethics; Leo Martin, cosmology and history of philosophy; Daniel Meagher, natural theology; John Prange, physics; Paul Sauer, procurator of the province.

New Wing

The new addition, under construction since early last April, will soon be ready for occupancy. All the exterior work was completed by the latter part of July. The architectural design and general construction of the new wing corresponds with those of the main building. Provision will be made for 67 additional rooms, a library, and a large basement.

Bro. Danahy's Last Vows

Brother Daniel Danahy pronounced his last vows on the feast of the Assumption, at the community Mass said by Father Rector.

A delightful program in the Brother's honor was rendered by the scholastics.

New Philosophers

The first year numbers 36 members from the following provinces: California: Messrs, Joseph Brusher, William Cahill, Robert Carmody, Gerald Clausing, Ralph Deward, George Dunne, William Finnegan, William Hanley, John Hesser, Henry Jahn, Albert Lemieux, Joseph Logan, Joseph Luger, Charles MacGregor, Joseph McHugh, Paul McNabb, Arthur McNeil, John Meckes, Paul O'Brien, John O'Farrell, John O'Hara, Cornelius O'Mara, Carrol O'Sullivan, James Ransford, Edward Stretch, Gerald Sugrue, James Sullivan, Erwin Toner, Hayden Vachon, Arthur Wharton and Theodore Wolf. Maryland-New York: Richard Dowling. New Orleans: Messrs. Ernest Burrus and John Linehan. Mr. John Hennessey of the Upper Canadian province has joined the second year philosophers.

Fr. Benn Resumes Teaching

Father William Benn has returned to the Mount greatly improved in health. During the summer he was undergoing treatment under the care of Dr. Miller at the Providence hospital in Seattle.

Fr. Galtes Recovered

Father Paul Galtes has recovered from the serious attack of high blood pressure he suffered a few months ago. Last May he was sent to Seattle where, it was hoped, the lower altitude and the care of specialists would remedy his condition. Finding that he had badly infected teeth, the doctors had several of them removed. After that his blood pressure rapidly dropped from 208 to 160 and his health became steadily better.

Laymen's Retreats

Two laymen's retreats were held this summer at the Mount, under the direction of Father Patrick J. O'Reilly. The first, from June 27-30, was attended by 65 men, the second, from July 11-14, by 65.

Villa Season

Exceptionally fine weather was enjoyed during the villa season this year at Twin Lakes. The scholastics returned to the Mount on July 21 to begin their annual retreat, conducted by Father Patrick O'Reilly.

Fr. Halpin's Departure

When Father Peter Halpin was leaving Mt. St. Michael's on September 1 to go to be minister at Seattle college, a huge crowd of Fathers and scholastics came down to the front door to bid him farewell and to express their gratitude for all the kindness and generosity he had shown toward them while minister at the Mount.

Missoula Faculty

This year's staff at Missoula is as follows: Fathers Krebsbach, superior and pastor; Geary, minister and teacher in the high school; Coufrant, spiritual father of our community and chaplain of St. Patrick's hospital; Cornelius Mullen, principal and teacher in the high school; Van Hoomissen, assistant pastor, chaplain of the Northern Pacific hospital.

Fr. Mullen in Accident

Father Cornelius Mullen was injured in an automobile accident early in July while on the way to Colfax, Washington, to be chaplain of the hospital there during the summer. Suffering from broken ribs and lacerations, he was taken to the Colfax hospital.

Scarcely had he recovered about two weeks later when he was stricken with an acute attack of appendicitis, and operated on at once. He has since recovered and returned to Missoula to resume his work as principal of Loyola high school. Father

James Kearney filled the chaplaincy at Colfax during the summer.

Fr. Geary Operated on

Father Hugh Geary has recovered nicely from the appendicitis operation he underwent several weeks ago.

Dramatics

In May the students of Loyola high school presented a play entitled "The Arrival of Kitty" at the Montana state dramatic contest held in Missoula. Work on the play prevented Loyola from entering contestants in the state declamation contest. The preceeding year Loyola's representative, Edward Dussault, won the contest. Dussault declaimed "The Tell Tale Heart," by Edgar Allen Poe. Near the end of the second semester a public debate was held before the Knights of Columbus. Owing to the subject of the debate, namely prohibition, no decision was given.

Varia

Father Charles O'Brien was chaplain of the Northern Pacific hospital during the summer. Father Keep conducted the summer retreat for the Sisters of Providence in Missoula. Classes were resumed at Loyola high school on September 3. The high school enrollment last year was 77. A parish bazaar will be held at the end of October in the auditorium of St. Francis Xavier's parochial school.

Pendleton

Father McKenna, pastor of St. Mary's church in Pendleton, Oregon, was master of ceremonies at the investing and profession ceremonies which took place on August 12 at the end of the annual retreat at the Mother house of the Franciscan Sisters in Pendleton. Father Kiely was assistant to Bishop Kelly of the diocese of Boise; Father Donnelly to Bishop McGrath of the diocese of Baker, Oregon, who conducted the ceremonies. Bishop Kelly gave the sermon. A large number of clergy from all parts of eastern Oregon was present in the sanctuary. At noon the Sisters served a banquet to the visiting clergy.

Father Lajoie, assistant at St. Mary's church, Pendleton, is a veteran missionary among the Umatilla and Nez Perce Indians. On August 12, when informed that there was a sick Indian woman far out on the Umatilla reservation, although the Indians declared that there was no immediate danger and that the woman would live for many days, Father Lajoie set out at once and, after a long journey over very rough roads, eventually found the cabin of the dying Indian. Father Kiely, who had visited her the day before, had found that neither she nor the old Indians caring for her could speak English. Father Lajoie heard her confession in the Umatilla dialect and administered the Last Sacraments; a few hours later she was dead.

Phoenix

The faculty of Phoenix, so far as we have heard, is as follows: Fathers Malone, rector; Ivancovich, minister, prefect of the church; Strehl, procurator; Geale, cur. val.; Howard, spiritual father of the community and of the students; R. S. Burns, G. G. Fox, Vaughan, Wales, teachers. Messrs. Clark and Copeland, teachers; Brothers Pille and Shepherd.

Portland: St. Ignatius

St. Ignatius Day

Father Peter M. Dunne gave the panegyric at the solemn high Mass on the Sunday following the feast of St. Ignatius; Father John J. Keep was celebrant; Father Patrick Joye, deacon, and Father Eugene M. Bacigalupi, subdeacon.

A large crowd of parishioners and visitors from other parts of the city attended the parish picnic held that afternoon in the pine grove adjoining the rectory. They had listened with great attention and interest to an address given by Father O'Keefe on Rome.

Parish School

The St. Ignatius parish school opened September 3 with an enrollment of 252 children, about fifty of whom came from other parishes. The school is in charge of seven Sisters of the Holy Names.

Improvements

Father Coudeyre, pastor of St. Ignatius, has enlarged and beautified the gardens and lawns during the past year and has kept the parish buildings in excellent condition; last spring he had new lights installed in the sanctuary; some time ago he had two spacious porches added to the Sisters' house, a sleeping porch on the second story and a recreation porch on the ground floor. Brother Huber was called to Portland toward the end of July to install a heating plant of the most modern type in the portable building which is used for some of the classes for which there is not sufficient room in the main school building.

Port Townsend

This year's tertianship at Port Townsend opened September 1, with the following 23 tertians:

California Province: Fathers Francis Altman, John Balfe, Gerald Beezer, James Donovan, Louis Fink, Mark Gaffney, James Kearney, William McNally, Maurice Meagher, Raymond Nichols.

Lower Canada Province: Fathers Oscar Belanger, Charles Frederic, Paul Gauthier, Euclide Gervaise.

New Orleans Province: Fathers Charles Chapman, Alvin G. Hayes, James Whelan.

New York-Maryland Province: Fathers Pedro Dimaano, Joaquim Lim, Pio Martinez.

Missouri Province: Father Norton.

New England Province: Fathers Frederick Donovan and J. Joseph Reilly.

Faculty

Father Ambrose Sullivan is superior and procurator; Father Joseph Chianale, tertian instructor; Father Nathaniel Purcell, minister; Fathers Alexander Diomedi and Joseph Cardon, cur. val., house confessors. The coadjutors are Brothers Broderick, Kish and Lachner.

San Jose

Staff

The following are stationed at our three churches in San Jose:

St. Joseph's: Fathers Joseph Crowley, superior and pastor; John D. Walshe, minister; John Nestor, procurator, spiritual father, assistant pastor; Louis O'Brien, assistant pastor; Walter Thornton, assistant pastor; Brother Worthsmith, buyer, assistant procurator.

St. Mary's: Fathers Henry Busch, superior; J. Francis, assistant.

Holy Family: Father Aloysius Roccati, superior; Joseph Perron, assistant.

Fr. Stack Gives Panegyric

Father Joseph Stack preached the panegyric of St. Ignatius on Sunday, August 4, in St. Joseph's church, San Jose. Father Crowley was celebrant.

New Doors

New doors, massively constructed of wood and sheathed in copper, recently installed in St. Joseph's church, are part of the scheme of renovation and decoration of the church, which has been in progress for some time.

New Marble Altars

Two additional marble altars, the gifts of parishioners, have been shipped from Italy and are expected to arrive at St. Joseph's very shortly.

New Addition to School

Four new classrooms, a gymnasium and a completely new sanitary system are being constructed at the St. Joseph's parish boys' high school.

The building is constructed of brick and will follow a modern adaptation of Romanesque architecture. The four classrooms will occupy the front of the new building, and at the rear will be the new gymnasium, which will have a frontage of 82 feet and will be 36 feet in height. The floor space will be 60 by 100 feet, and will provide two basketball courts 60 feet long. The north wall of the gymnasium will have neither doors nor windows, and will supply the need of a handball court.

Students Give Savings

Several years ago the students began to contribute their savings to a fund for the erection of a gymnasium. Recently they were proud to be able to hand Father Crowley the sum of $6,000 to aid in liquidating the debt incurred in erecting the new addition. The parishioners of St. Joseph's are most enthusiastic over the new building, and have offered Father Crowley their wholehearted support in paying off the debt incurred, which will be about $60,000.

Nine Marist Brothers teach in this school.

Santa Clara University

Faculty

The faculty at Santa Clara university is as follows: Fathers C. J. McCoy, rector; Joseph Georgen, minister; Harold Ring, prefect of discipline; William Gianera, dean; John Hayes, procurator; Henry Woods, spiritual father, librarian, writer; Aloysius Raggio, chaplain of asylum; Jerome Ricard, director of observatory; Eugene Bacigalupi, Edward Boland, Cornelius Deeney, James Henry, Bernard Hubbard, James Lyons, John Mootz, Edward Shipsey, teachers; Messrs. James Duffy, Leo Gaffney, Alfred Johnson, teachers; Brothers Bartz, Brancoli, Gosselin, Killian, Timothy Lynch, Anthony Pereira, Stephen Vlasich.

Fr. Raggio's Jubilee

Father Aloysius Raggio, beloved pioneer Jesuit of the Santa Clara valley and many years ago a golden jubilarian as a member of the Society, celebrated on July 7 his golden jubilee as a priest.

The congregation filled the mission church to capacity that morning when Father Raggio celebrated solemn high Mass, with Fathers Richard A. Gleeson and Dominic Giacobbi assisting him as deacon and subdeacon respectively.

The sermon was delivered by Father Dennis J. Kavanagh, who spoke on the priesthood and made many apt and touching applications to the venerable jubilarian. After Father Kavanagh's sermon Archbishop Hanna paid an eloquent tribute to Father Raggio.

The clergy in the sanctuary included Archbishop Hanna, Father Provincial and Fathers C. J. McCoy, Zacheus Maher, William Gianera, John Hayes, James Henry, Dennis Mahony, George Butler, Vicente Gannon, Keller, Sutton, O'Connor, John Mootz and Henry Woods.

Record Enrollment

This year's enrollment at Santa Clara university, as announced August 29, is 446. At this time last year the number was 404. There are about 300 boarders this year, an increase of more than 50 over last year.

Owing to the large number enrolled, several of the smaller classrooms in Kenna Hall have been converted into dormitories for the students.

The enrollment in the college of law is 56; in the college of liberal arts, 187; in the college of business administration, 98; in the college of engineering, 111; in the pre-medical department, 53. Thus the total registration in all departments is 505. Since a number are taking combined courses, the actual number of individual students is 446.

Embracing all departments, the enrollment according to classes is as follows: 72 seniors, 97 juniors, 119 sophomores, 158 freshmen.

Mass of the Holy Ghost

Father John McCummiskey preached the sermon at the Mass of the Holy Ghost on August 28; Father C. J. McCoy, president of the university, was celebrant; Father Georgen, deacon; and Father Hugh Donavon, subdeacon.

Fr. Whelan Gives Retreat

The annual retreat of the entire student-body of the university of Santa Clara, which began at 6:30 Tuesday evening, September 3, was conducted by Fr. Edward J. Whelan, president of St. Ignatius college, San Francisco.

Mission Bell is Lost

According to a statement in the Northwest Progress, a bell given by King Alfonso XIII of Spain to hang in the belfry of the restored mission of Santa Clara had been reported lost en route from Spain to San Francisco. An extensive search was instituted. The bell, it is thought, might have been unloaded by mistake at a Central American port.

According to a later announcement in the Santa Clara, the bell seems to have been found and is expected shortly in San Francisco.

Carmelite General Visits

Very Reverend Father Guglielmo Di S. Alberti, general of the Carmelites, was the guest of the university of Santa Clara during the middle of August. Accompanied by his secretary, Father Clement, he is touring the United States on a visit of Carmelite houses. He pronounced the Carmelite monastery in Santa Clara as beautiful as anything he had seen in Europe.

In San Francisco he was the guest of St. Ignatius college. While there

St. Clare's Church

Father W. H. Culligan, pastor of St. Clare's church, Santa Clara, some time ago sent us a dollar for the Province News for 1928-1929; we have just received another dollar from him for the year 1929-1930. So far as the present editor knows, Father Culligan's spontaneous and generous contribution is the first we have received to help defray the very considerable expense of printing and mailing out the Province News. While we have never demanded subscription fees, voluntary contributions will be most gratefully received.

Father Mark Falvey is to be Father Culligan's assistant this year. Father Gonzales, the Mexican exile, leaves there September 9.

he conferred with our Fathers on the disposition of the Mexican Carmelite nuns, who have been cared for in San Francisco since their expulsion from Mexico during the Calles persecution.

During his tour of the Northwest he visited Seattle College and the Provincial's residence in Portland.

On Sunday, August 11, Father Guglielmo and his secretary, accompanied by Dr. Albert J. Newlin of the observatory staff of Santa Clara university, motored to Monterey, where Bishop McGinley of the diocese of Monterey and Fresno joined the party. They then went to the Carmelite monastery of St. Theresa at Carmel-by-the-Sea, viewed the old Carmel mission and the tomb of Father Junipero Serra and also the hill overlooking Monterey bay where the new monastery will be situated. That evening the Father General and his secretary left for Southern California to visit the Carmelite houses in the Los Angeles diocese.

Fr. Reynolds Lectures

Father T. E. Reynolds returned early in August from an extended research trip in New Mexico and exhibited at Santa Clara university what is declared the second best collection in the world of Puerco mammal specimens. The best collection is said to be the American Museum of natural history.

Father Reynolds is from the Missouri province; he has been living at Santa Clara for the past two years while studying for a doctorate at the university of California.

He has given numerous scientific lectures in bay city schools, and gave a number of lectures in New Mexico this summer. He is scheduled to give a series of lectures on scientific subjects at the college of the Holy Names this semester.

Bequest to Library

A 2500 volume addition to the library of the university was received during the summer. Father Lally, the donor, died several months ago at Providence hospital, Oakland, where he was chaplain.

Oratorical Honors

After winning first place in the Pacific zone finals of the fifth national intercollegiate oratorical contest, held at the auditorium of the university, John P. MacEnery, a law student of Santa Clara, was awarded third honors in the national finals held at Bovard auditorium, university of Southern California, Los Angeles.

Seattle College

Faculty

The Seattle College staff is as follows: Fathers Walter Fitzgerald, rector; Peter Halpin, minister, procurator; Timothy Driscoll, dean of college; Dionysius Sullivan, principal of high school; William Dunne, students' chaplain, teacher; William Driscoll, J. Mulligan (N. Y.-Md.), James Doyle, Louis Egan, teachers; Messrs. Alexander Tourigny, Thomas Feely, Francis Logan, Edward Flajole, Clarence Cheyney, teachers; Brothers James Dunn, assistant procurator; Edmund Prendiville, rectorian.

Immaculate Conception Church: Fathers Robert V. Burns, pastor; William Bennett, assistant.

St. Joseph's Church: Fathers William Deeney, pastor; John Durgan, Michael O'Malley, Ernest Delpiano, assistants.

New Gymnasium Erected

A large gymnasium 60 by 100 feet was erected at Seattle College during the summer. It has been built of concrete blocks, tiles, and heavy steel trusses, and will provide the best high school basketball floor in the city. The gymnasium has been erected just south of the class room building, with which it connects by an arcade opening into the locker-rooms in the main building.

The gymnasium will have a playing floor of 40 by 83 feet, and allows for moveable bleachers along the sides to seat about 500 or more spectators. The roof, of 2 inch tongue and groove covered with the best roofing paper, rests on 60 foot steel trusses, heavily interlocked and capable of sustaining horizontal bars and other gymnasium equipment. A balcony may later be hung from it, if needed. The baskets will be swung from three trusses in such a way as to insure perfect rigidity with the convenience of raising them out of sight when a portable stage is introduced for school plays and other exercises. A kitchenette and rest room has been added to the south east corner.

New Chapel

The old auditorium at the north end of the second floor has been converted into a students' chapel 30 by 70 feet in size. It has been entirely remodeled. A beamed ceiling, a composition floor, and stained glass windows will give the chapel a neat and attractive religious atmosphere. A special altar is being constructed for the new chapel. Adjoining the chapel will be the chaplain's sodality council's room.

Students' Library Renovated

The tables, woodwork, floor and ceiling of the students' library have all been varnished or re-tinted and the 5000 volumes on the shelves are set off to the best advantage. The state inspector of schools recently expressed his satisfaction with the arrangement of the books under the decimal system. The work of accessioning and completing the indexes will be continued under the direction of Mr. Tourigny, the new librarian.

Sermons

Father Timothy Driscoll preached the occasional sermon at the ceremony of religious profession which took place on the feast of the Assumption at the end of the retreat he had given at the mother-house of the Sisters of St. Joseph of Peace in Bellingham. Msgr. Theodore M. Ryan presided at the ceremony.

Father D. J. Kavanagh will conduct a mission at St. John's church, Seattle, September 8 to 15.

Father Timothy Driscoll preached at St. Mary's church, Seattle, Sunday, August 25, on the necessity of Catholic education for every Catholic child.

Registration

At Seattle college the high school department will begin classes September 10; the college department, September 16. Registration to date has been greater than at any corresponding time in the history of the school, according to an announcement in the Northwest Progress of August 30.

Tacoma

The faculty at Tacoma is as follows: Fathers David McAstocker, superior; Joseph A. Lynch, minister and teacher in high school; Biagini, prefect of St. Rita's Italian church; Farrell, assistant pastor; Francis Gleeson, teacher in high school; John McAstocker, prefect of studies and discipline in high school; Robert Kane, assistant pastor; Messrs. Glancy and Schultheis, teachers in high school; Brother John Neillon, sacristan.

New Chapel Donated

A beautiful chapel will be presented to Bellarmine high school, Tacoma, by Frank J. Hickey, as a memorial to his parents, the late Maurice J. and Catharine Hickey, for 35 years residents of Tacoma. Mr. Hickey's gift will cover the cost of the furnishings as well as of the chapel building.

Frank J. Hickey is the manager of the Tacoma hotel and a prominent figure in Tacoma business and civic life.

Philomatheia Scholarships

To obtain funds for the establishment of scholarships at Bellarmine high school, the annual Philomatheia party will be held September 13 at the Tacoma Hotel.

Parish High School

St. Leo's parish high school for girls opened September 3 for its second year with a complete four year course, a well equipped scientific laboratory, new courses in domestic science, and an augmented faculty of 13 Franciscan Sisters of Glen Riddle.

Yakima

This year the staff at St. Joseph's is as follows: Father Brusten is superior and pastor; Father Maruca, minister and principal of the high school; Father Feusi, assistant and in charge of the mission at White Swan; Father Steele will assist in the parish and teach in the high school; Messrs J. McDonnell and F. Schoenberg, teachers in the high school; Brother Moneta, cook and sacristan.

The Missions of the Provinces

To China

Ceremonies preceding the departure for Shanghai, China, of Father Leo McGreal and Messrs. Francis Rouleau and Albert Corcoran will be held in St. James Cathedral in Seattle, Friday evening, September 6. Father D. J. Kavanagh will preach the departure sermon.

Father McGreal was principal of Marquette high school in Yakima last year; Mr. Rouleau has just finished his philosophy at Mt. St. Michael's; Mr. Corcoran was professor of chemistry last year at Loyola College in Los Angeles.

Northern Alaska

Father Delon, superior of northern Alaska, Father Lucchesi and Mr. Baud, made the journey together from Fairbanks to Ruby on the Yukon in the latter part of July. From Ruby, Father Delon went by airplane to Nome, and thence to Kotzebue Sound. Meanwhile Father Lucchesi and Mr. Baud went on down to Holy Cross. They were followed in a few days by Bishop Crimont.

As His Lordship wished to visit the missions at Kashunak and Hooper Bay, he accompanied Father Lucchesi on the mission steamer "Tosi" to Chukartulik, where the church is being completed which was started by Father Keyes shortly before his death. At this season few families are to be found at Chuk-artulik, since most of the natives leave the little river Kashunak in summer to go to fish along the mighty Yukon.

With the engine room of the little steamer as his cathedral, the Bishop celebrated Mass on Sunday for the Eskimos of the village. A few Eskimo boys from the Holy Cross mission school supplied the singing, while a violin and a guitar took the place of the organ.

That afternoon Father John Fox arrived from Kashunak on his boat, "The Little Flower." He had been marooned for 16 hours on a sand bar. The Bishop accompanied him to Father Frank Menager's mission at Hooper Bay.

Father Lonneux, in his boat, "The Sea Gnat," visited the many fishing camps on the lower Yukon during the summer.

The church at Akularak on the Yukon delta burned down in the last week in August. Thus far we have heard no details.

Wrangell

Father Laux replaced Father Monroe at Wrangell for five weeks during the summer, while the latter went to Douglas to install an altar and make other improvements in the church there, which has been rebuilt since the fire of some time ago.

Wrangell is a town of about a thousand people, situated on Wrangell Island, 52 hours by boat from Seattle. It is one of the beauty spots of Southern Alaska. Its principal industries are fishing and lumber.

Colville Mission

Fr. Owens III

Father Charles Owens was taken to the Sacred Heart hospital in Spokane immediately after the great Indian conclave at Nespelem, Washington, on July 4. He had suffered a general breakdown from remaining away from medical care for too long. His kidneys had been injured by his continuous automobile driving over the very rough mountain roads on which during the past year he covered about 2000 miles a month in visiting the Indian mission stations at Cusick, Ford, Pia, Barnaby, Incheleum, Keller and Nespelem, Washington, and the white parish at Springdale. His stomach and intestines were in a paralyzed condition brought on by bad water he had taken during his missionary trips.

The Indian chiefs had invited him two months before to the Nespelem conclave; so, although he had been feverish for some time, he decided to attend. His fever lasted for two weeks after he had been taken to the Sacred Heart hospital. Owing to the devoted care of the Sisters at the hospital and the forced feeding to which he was subjected during the weeks of convalescence, he gained 30 pounds and was able to resume his missionary work about August 20th.

Since last Christmas there have been 22 deaths among the Indians under his care. He has been able to administer the Last Sacraments in all of these cases, although to do so it was frequently necessary for him to make journeys of from 200 to 300 miles. He has administered about 35 Baptisms during the past ten months.

Great Indian Conclave

During the nine days of the great Indian conclave at Nespelem, the government agency for the Colville reservation, over 2000 Indians were present. These included the church chiefs from the various mission stations in Idaho, Montana, British Columbia and eastern Washington. Church chiefs are not the tribal chiefs, but are the most prominent Catholics in their respective communities and take the leading part in all religious exercises. These chiefs, together with the large number of other visiting Indians from the Kootenay, Kalispell, Flathead, Coeur d'Alene, Yakima, Okanagan, Moses, Nez Perce and Spokane tribes were the guests at Nespelem of the Colville tribe, which numbers about 3000.

A large number of the Indians were present at Mass every day during the conclave, and on Sundays and feast days the church was packed to overflowing.

July 4th Celebration

The Indians made a magnificent spectacle on July 4, when about 200 warriors on horseback and several hundred on foot, all dressed in their richest tribal regalia, marched around the camp in a big parade.

Teepee Contest

The teepees were arranged in a complete circle about a quarter of a mile in diameter. The Indians and especially the chiefs, vied with one another in decorating their teepees. The prize for the best decorated teepee was awarded to Chief Jim James, the leading Catholic of the Colville reservation and the church chief of the Keller community. He has won the prize for the past several years. This year his teepee had a large American flag painted on the side.

Indian Reunion

Since the Indians have no newspapers of their own, this annual conclave is the occasion they eagerly look forward to for meeting and exchanging news with relatives and friends who have migrated to other parts of the Northwest.

Huge Indian Banquet

A big banquet in honor of the visitors from other tribes was given by the Colville Indians on one of the days during the conclave. The banquet was served under a huge and especially prepared tent in the middle of a circle. A special effort was made to make the food genuine Indian fare, devoid of the innovations introduced from white civilization. On blankets spread on the ground before the squatting Indians were placed vast quantities of venison, wild duck, pheasants, salmon, mountain trout, wild huckleberries, wild cherries, bannick or Indian bread baked on top of the camp fire, and camas, which is a root resembling the wild onion, and which, when boiled in moss, is considered a great delicacy by the Indians.

Father Caldi, the missionary at Omak, and Father Nichols, who was temporarily replacing the pastor at Okanogan, drove over the mountains to Nespelem on July 4 to recruit children for the Indian school at Omak.

DeSmet Mission

Father John Post of Desmet mission has asked us to publish the following notice:

"Fathers John and Hubert Post wish to recommend to your prayers a near relative of theirs, a sister-in-law, who died July 30th. Two of her sons are priests and one of her daughters a religious."

Holy Family Mission

At Holy Family mission Father Ignatius Dumbeck is superior; Father Aloysius Soer, missionarius excurrens.

Father Dumbeck wrote recently: "The Indians have been around to sound out the new Father. Possibly there might be some chance to beg a lot of things from him! So far they have not been successful.

"The summer has been very dry and hot. Our crops will amount to very little. As a result we will have to buy almost everything, hay, grain, flour, etc. Our good Lord will have to supply the means to pay the bills.

"Two years ago the Two Medicine river, which curves right around the mission, threatened to wash the whole place away. Father Grant succeeded in putting up a dam to stave off the danger."

St. Andrew's Mission

Fr. Corbett Operated On

Fr. Corbett, superior of St. Andrew's mission near Pendleton, Oregon, went to the Sacred Heart hospital in Spokane on July 21 for a double hernia operation. He was temporarily replaced at St. Andrew's by Father Kiely, who remained at the mission until August 20 when he had to return to Mt. St. Michael's to prepare for the reopening of classes. Father Purcell then took charge of the mission until the return of Father Corbett on August 28.

Mission Schools

The St. Andrew's Indian school had about 80 pupils last year. The larger boys have their dormitory at the rear of the mission rectory. Two laymen employed at the mission act as their prefect and teacher.

The Indian girls and the small boys are housed in a large, new concrete building about 200 yards further up the hill. They are under the care of five Franciscan Sisters of Glen Riddle. This new school building was erected a few years ago by Father Boll, after the former school had been destroyed by fire.

These Indian children are clothed and fed partly by the proceeds from the mission ranch and partly from the gifts of charitable friends.

St. Xavier's Mission

Fr. Cardon Has Heart Attack

Father Cardon suffered a severe heart attack in July. After he was anointed he rallied somewhat, but is still in a serious condition. Father Ambrose Sullivan has been sent to Billings to bring him down to the lower altitude of Port Townsend as soon as he is able to travel.

Father Grant is superior at St. Xavier's mission this year, with Father Laux as his assistant.

Other Houses

Santa Barbara: Fathers Grisez, Oyarzo, Whittle, Rossetti, William Boland; Messrs. Ludcke and Francis Cahill.

Los Gatos: Same faculty as last year.

St. Xavier's Mission: Fathers Grant and Laux.

St. Joseph's Mission: Fathers Neate and Kern.

Havre: Fathers Smith and Sansone.

Lewiston: Fathers Bruckert and Boll.

Brother Johnson is at Holy Family mission; Brother Cherpeski, at St. Paul's mission.

The houses we have omitted we have not yet heard from.

To Theology

Messrs. Laurence Malone, Bartholomew O'Neill, John Dunne, Thomas Saunders and Frederick Coffey have been sent to St. Louis to begin their theology; Mr. Joseph Robidoux has gone there to commence his third year of theology. Mr. Arthur Spearman has gone to Weston, Massachusetts; Messrs Christy McDonnell and Leo Yeats, to Enghien, Belgium; and Messrs. Albert Casey and George Endal, to Lyons, France.

Obituary

Fr. William O'Brien

Father William O'Brien died July 6 at Los Angeles, California, in the 55th year of his life, and his 34th in the Society.

After the requiem Mass at Loyola college in Los Angeles on July 10, his remains were sent to Santa Clara to rest in the Jesuit plot of the cemetery there.

Father O'Brien was born in Troy, New York, October 18, 1874. Having entered the Society, August 29, 1895, he taught in the Indian school at St. Andrew's mission on the Umatilla reservation near Pendleton, Oregon, from 1898 to 1901.

In 1901 he began his philosophy at Gonzaga college in Spokane, and afterwards taught there until 1906. He did his theology also in Spokane, where he was ordained.

In 1911-1912 he was assistant at St. Joseph's church in Seattle. He was then from 1914 to 1917 assigned to St. Andrew's mission again, where he taught in the school and worked as missionary among the Indians. From 1917 to 1918 he was prefect of the boys in the Indian school at St. Paul's mission among the Gros Ventres and Assiniboines of Montana.

Then for seven years, from 1918 to 1925, he taught in the Gonzaga high school in Spokane. The following year he was principal in Marquette high school in Yakima.

During the year 1926-1927, while he was assistant pastor at St. Jude's church, Havre, Montana, he suffered a severe attack of heart trouble which incapacitated him for the last two years of his life.

Father O'Brien was gifted with good talent for preaching, and was often employed in that work. His amiability and friendliness made him well liked by those who lived with him.

Fr. Timothy L. Murphy

Father Timothy L. Murphy died August 13, 1929, at Santa Clara university in the 50th year of his life and his 34th in the Society. Father Grisez, pastor at Santa Barbara was celebrant at the requiem Mass in the Santa Clara mission church on August 16. A large crowd of relatives and friends attended, and Msgr. Henrique Ribiero, with 47 other members of the clergy, was present in the sanctuary.

Father Murphy was born on February 20, 1880, in San Francisco, and received his early education at St. Ignatius college. On December 28, 1895, he entered the Sacred Heart Novitiate at Los Gatos. After completing his philosophy at Gonzaga university, Spokane, he taught at St. Ignatius college in San Francisco from 1904 to 1909.

During his theology at St. Louis university he was forced by sickness to interrupt his course for a year. He was ordained in St. Louis in December 1913. In the academic year 1914-1915 he was prefect of studies in Garvanza, Los Angeles.

The following year he made his tertianship privately at the novitiate in Los Gatos, with Father Sasia as his tertian instructor. Then for two years he taught the juniors at Los Gatos. He was pastor of the church of the Immaculate Conception in Seattle during the year 1917-1918, and was then, in November 1918, made rector of Santa Clara university, succeeding Father Thornton.

Rector of Santa Clara

It was the year of the great influenza epidemic, and the number prostrated at the university, and the fear of catching the dread disease working on the nerves of those not touched by it, made times the most trying. The untiring work done by the faculty, assisted by the Sisters of Charity from the O'Connor sanitarium, under Father Murphy's leadership is demonstrated by the fact that only one boy died of the epidemic at the university.

During Father Murphy's administration, the Reserve Officers Training Corps was conducted at Santa Clara university. The strenuous labors and worries of 1918-1919 at the university from the adverse conditions of the influenza epidemic left their mark indelibly on Father Murphy's health, and in 1921 he was relieved of the burden of office and was succeeded by Father Zacheus J. Maher.

Father Murphy then taught for three years at Seattle college and for two years at Santa Clara. After three months at Seattle college in the autumn of 1926 his health, which had been very poor for years, finally broke down, and he was sent to the hospital.

After his arrival in Santa Barbara in January, 1927, he gradually regained strength and was soon able to assume some of the lighter work of the parish.

As his strength grew he was able to fill the pulpit of Our Lady of Sorrows church, Santa Barbara, in regular turn and was always ready for extraordinary occasions. He was chaplain of the Santa Barbara council of the Knights of Columbus, and he conducted a course of adult education on religious subjects, which was eagerly attended by the members of the council.

He was distinguished as an orator and preacher of extraordinary ability. The clearness of his presentation and the eloquence of his diction had made his sermon work very popular in all the cities of the Pacific coast.

His health began to fail again during May of this year. In the middle of June he was taken to St. Francis hospital in Santa Barbara, where he hung between life and death for eight weeks, though during the last ten days there were decided signs of improvement.

On August 12 at his own request he was taken by Dr. Adrian F. Burkard to Santa Clara, to be among his own brethren in the university infirmary, as he hoped that the change would bring speedy recovery. He stood the trip well, and all believed that the change would help him; the end came, however, unexpectedly the next morning.

Surviving Father Murphy are his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Murphy; four sisters, Sister M. Bridget, Sister M. Lorenzo of the Sisters of Mercy, Mrs. C. T. McDonnell and Mrs. J. E. Egan, and two brothers, L. E. and T. I. Murphy.

R. I. P.

Bro. Laurence Joyce

Brother Laurence Joyce died at Santa Clara university on August 20, 1929, in the 68th year of his life and his 38th in the Society.

He was born near Stockton in California, December 10, 1860. His father, Michael Joyce, a native of Cork, came to California in 1852; his mother, Johanna Gallagher, the following year. The Joyces settled in Stockton, the starting-point for the southern gold fields, as Sacramento and Marysville were for the northern, and therefore a place of much trade. Instead of following the multitude to seek fortune in the mines, they took up farming as a surer means to a competence.

Laurence, then, grew up on the farm, getting the rudiments of education in the country school. In his twenty-second year he tried college life at St. Mary's; but a single term satisfied him and he went back to the land, where he remained until February 2, 1890, when he entered the novitiate.

After his novitiate he came to Santa Clara, where he was to remain for the rest of his life. Employed according to his natural bent in different offices, he eventually took charge of the making of the Mass wine at Villa Maria. This difficult office, which became still more difficult with the regulations consequent on prohibition, he discharged to the end, having spent the last day of his life at the factory.

He had long been suffering with an intestinal complaint which more than once had brought him to death's door. This reached its term near midnight, August 19, and within an hour he was dead, August 20, 1929.

Brother Joyce was singularly quiet and reserved. Exact in the performance of every duty, he could be depended on implicitly. Having his tongue under the control of grace, he made no enemies either at home or abroad; while many learned to esteem him for his solid virtue.

Items From Other Provinces

Portugal

With the tacit consent of the government, some of Ours are working in Portugal. We have five residences in Portuguese territory, two of them in Lisbon itself. There are besides some Fathers working in seminaries as professors or spiritual fathers. From all parts come petitions for Jesuit missionaries, and great consideration and affection are shown toward Ours.

Rome

"Civiltà" Editor Arrested

According to the N. C. W. C. news service, the July 20 issue of the "Civiltà Catholica" was sequestered by the Italian police, and its editor, Father Enrico Rosa was arrested, taken before a public court and given a secret trial. The trial ended with no further action being taken against the person of Father Rosa, but with the sequestration order approved.

All the mail copies of the publication had left the building two days before the raid and few copies were actually seized.

The alleged cause of the raid was the leading article in the number. It was captioned "Between Ratification and Rectifications." In it the author recalled the history of Napoleon's concordat with Pope Pius VII, the plebiscite that followed the burdensome additional restrictions which he added after it was signed, contrary to its tenor, and his final fall and exile to St. Helena. Taking as his theme, "History Repeats Itself," the author compares the concordat of Pius VII with that of Pius XI. He refers to the enthusiasm following the signing of the Lateran pact, to the Fascist plebiscite of March 24, then to the profound grief occasioned by the addresses delivered by the head of the government in the House of Deputies and in the Senate. Then he considers the Papal address during the audience given the scholars of the Catholic university of Milan and the letter from His Holiness to the Cardinal Secretary of State, in which Pius XI revindicates the educational mission of the Church and replies to certain statements made by Premier Mussolini.

The Pope has since sent the "Civiltà Catholica" a gold medal as a token of his "unchanged benevolence and confidence," according to an announcement in the Northwest Progress.

Mexican Settlement

Father Edmund A. Walsh of Georgetown university was twice received by the Pope during the week ending August 17, according to the N. C. W. C. news service. Father Walsh presented to His Holiness a report of events in Mexico.

The Pope congratulated Father Walsh upon the intelligent collaboration of those whose efforts brought about the religious pacification, and lauded the assistance given by Archbishop Ruiz y Flores and the Mexican episcopate, by Senor Cruchaga, former Chilean ambassador to the United States, and by Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico.

At the request of His Holiness, Father Walsh is preparing a complete report of the facts concerning the actual settlement of the religious question in Mexico.

Rome

His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, received the professors of the Gregorian University, who went to offer their congratulations on the occasion of the Jubilee of the Holy Father's priesthood. There were about fifty in the audience, which included professors from the Biblical and Oriental Institutes.

The Rector of the Gregorian, Father Gianfranceschi, presented His Holiness with a set of the works published by the University during his Pontificate. His Holiness conversed with each of the professors personally, speaking of the work to which each had devoted himself, and then seated on the throne listened to the address of Father Gianfranceschi. In his speech, the Rector recalled the history of the University, an eminently Papal institute, founded and maintained by the Popes, some of whom, like Pius XI, have been its alumni.

In reply, the Holy Father spoke of the happy times of his studies, and said that the University had merited his predilection. He added that he was particularly grateful for the present of the books, since, as an old librarian, he could not forget his love of good books.

The audience ended with the bestowal of a blessing on the visitors, their relatives, their pupils, and their studies.

The Gregorian counts 1612 pupils, amongst whom are 236 Italians, 205 French, 139 Mexicans, 137 English, 137 Spanish, 124 Germans, 71 Poles and 48 Belgians. There are 517 students of Philosophy, 966 of Theology, 92 of Canon Law, and 37 students of the "Cursus Magistrorum."

Missouri.

As a result of the co-operative system—a month in the shops and in school alternately—about a hundred junior and senior engineering students of Marquette University were unable to make the annual retreat at the appointed time. Before authorities had been able to make a provision for them, they had sent a petition asking that a retreat-master be sent to give them a retreat. Their request was complied with, Father Schuetz being appointed to conduct the exercises.

New England

Commenting favorably on the school or law which Boston college is opening this semester, the New England newspapers have praised especially the fact that in the new school the admission requirements are stricter than those demanded by state laws, The law school will be situated in the down-town section of Boston. Father John B. Greeden will be regent, and Dennis Dooley, A. B., LL. B. of the class of 1912, will be dean.

... Fr. Buschor Operated on ...

Father Buschor was operated on for goiter on July 20 by Dr. Moore at the Providence hospital in Seattle. Following the operation he was confined to the hospital for five weeks. He has now returned to Gonzaga with his health greatly improved.

His condition first became serious last Christmas, when he was assisting at St. Mary's church Sprague, Washington. After returning from Sprague, where he had spent many hours in the confessional and had preached at the three Christmas Masses, he was unable to speak for a week. Treatment by Dr. Greene, however restored his voice to him, and he was able to continue his teaching for the rest of the year at Gonzaga.

McGoldrick Fire

The Gonzaga stadium was in imminent danger of destruction on the night of August 23, when a huge fire swept through several acres of the McGoldrick lumber mill, situated directly back of Gonzaga. The fire, which started at 6 p. m. just east of the sawmill, was driven by a strong west wind through the piles of lumber, the great sawdust storehouses and other buildings, until it was checked by the firemen just a few yards from the long row of oil tanks on the western side of Hamilton street. The conflagration extended south along the Spokane river as far as Trent avenue, destroying the Payne sanitarium on Dakota, an apartment house on Trent, and a number of private homes, among them the home of the parents of Mr. Joseph F. McDonnell, now teaching in our high school in Yakima. The flames were checked on the north at the O. W. R. & N. railway tracks, which are separated from the Gonzaga stadium by only about 100 yards of lumber.

As the flames were soaring about 200 feet into the air, the firemen made little attempt to put them out, but concentrated their hoses on the hundreds of lumber piles and buildings that had not caught fire. Clouds of sparks from the great blaze started several smaller fires among the long lines of lumber east of Hamilton, but these were all extinguished by the firemen. The total loss was estimated at $750,000. It was all covered by insurance.

Had the high wind, which had been flowing from the South all afternoon, not become a west wind as evening approached, the Gonzaga stadium and probably also the Desmet hall would have gone up in flames.

First Masses

Father Paul Corkery sang his first solemn Mass in St. Aloysius church, Spokane, toward the end of June. Father John Keep who was deacon at the Mass, gave the sermon. Mr. Frank Corkery was subdeacon and Robert Corkery served the Mass.

A week or two later Father James Kearney celebrated his first solemn Mass, also in St. Aloysius. The sermon was preached by Father Maurice Meagher. Among those present were his father and three of his sisters, one of whom is a Sister of the Holy Names.

The church was packed on both of these occasions.
